PREVENTIVE POINTERS:

What about our Senior Citizens? previously in this column, we have discussed the problem, but by now you may be saying to yourselves, "Nothing is being done about it."

Last week, two important things happened. First, was the appointment of two Preventive Social Service Board members, Pauline Girvine and Pat Chomyn to be responsible for helping Senior Citizens get themselves organized. Since then, Pauline and Pat have been in touch with key senior citizens in Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Hillcrest, some time during the next couple of weeks, a trip is planned to Fernie to visit the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre there. From this experience, the representatives of each town in the Pass, will be getting busy with other interested senior citizens to develop similar programs for themselves.

The second thing that happened last week, was that the problems of senior citizens - increasing taxes, fixed income, poor housing, lack of a Senior Citizen's home in the Pass, etc., were given serious discussion by what is called our Community Resources Liaison Group. This group is composed of representatives from Manpower, Provincial Welfare Department, Canada Pensions, Family Life Center, Indian Affairs Branch, Preventive Social Service, Recreation Board, and various town councils. Present at this meeting, were a few invited senior citizens, who stated their problems, and Mr. Sonny Richards, who spoke for the situation of many of the older men that he knows. One of the conclusions of this discussion that I was not aware of, was that senior citizens, who own their own property, and who are not able to meet increases in taxes, without undue hardship, could receive assistance from the Provincial Welfare Department. Considerable discussion also centered around the question of a Senior Citizen's Home for the Pass; Because of the many problems, the great need, and the interest shown, this discussion will be carried on at the next meeting of the Community Resources Liaison Group.

If you are a Senior Citizen, and would like to help establish a Drop-In Center in Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue or Hillcrest, please contact this office at 564-4081, or call personally Pauline Grigel at 564-4002 or Pat Chomyn at 564-4463.

Cadet Turkey Shoot, Dec. 22nd

General rules for the shoot indicate that targets, rifles and ammunition will be provided and only army issue rifles will be used. Targets will be set up on the 20 yard range and five shots allowed at each target. Entry fee has been set at $1 per target and shoot will be for three turkeys.

All commands given by the range officer will be obeyed. The Corps will not be responsible for accidents due to failure of participants failing to obey. Scoring will be done by range officers and their decisions will be final.

Proceeds from the event will be used to finance the Christmas banquet for the Cadets and their parents.

Coffee and donuts will be served after the shoot to all participants.

Robert Langille Legion President

Coleman Branch No. 9, Royal Canadian Legion, at a general meeting, elected Robert Langille president of the branch to replace Al Krywolt who after holding the position for the past five years retired due to business pressure.

Wasylun, Steve Cembrowski, Glen Poulton and John Stownichy.

The installation will be held in the Club rooms at 7 p.m. Dec. 14 and will be followed by a social evening and buffet lunch.

Reports given at the meeting indicated that poppy and wreath sales had netted a total of $318.

Discussion was held on remodeling and redecorating the Legion Club rooms and for the present time the interior will be repainted.

A vote of thanks was extended to the bingo committee for the funds they are raising for Club work.

Regular and social evenings will be held in the Club rooms once per month.

Pythians Hold Bake Sale

The Hillcrest Temple Pythian Sisters held a successful rummage and bake sale recently.

Leanna Makin of Hillcrest was the winner of the oil painting of Turtle Mountain and Mrs. Ivy Jones of Bellevue was winner of the cake draw.

Even if you are not a Senior Citizen, but are concerned to see something happen for them, please feel free to all us and get involved. If anyone has a special problem that he would like to see discussed at our next meeting with the various governmental agencies, we would also like to hear from you.

Our Senior Citizens worked hard to help our communities in their days, let all of us pull together to make life better for them today. This is another way that the Preventive Program is seeking to - "Accentuate the Positive to Eliminate the Negative."

Councilman Cornett Named President

Pension Age Lower In '69

OTTAWA — Canada Pension Plan retirement pensions will be paid at age 66 in 1969, a year younger than in 1968.

Reminding contributors to the plan of the reduction in pensionable age, Health and Welfare Minister John Munro pointed out that retirement pensions must be applied for; payment is not automatic. Application may be made at any of the Canada Pension Plan offices in 38 major centres across Canada or at local offices in smaller centres. Applications for retirement pensions under the Quebec Pension Plan must be made to the Quebec Pension Board.

Mr. Munro said, "If you are 66 now, retired and have been a contributor to the Canada Pension Plan, get in touch with the nearest CPP office at once. If you will become 66 in 1969, application must be made within three months prior to your birthday." For applicants now 66 or more, payment will begin in January, 1969.

Mr. Munro explained that the eligible age for retirement pensions is reduced each year until 1970 when it will be 65. This is consistent with similar age reductions in the minimum eligible age for Old Age Security pensions and the Guaranteed Income Supplement.

People who are 70 or more and who have contributed to the Canada Pension Plan need not be retired to receive a retirement pension, but application must still be made.

Truck Registration For Winter Work

Hon. Gordon E. Taylor, Alberta Minister of Highways, has announced that truck registration for winter work commenced Tuesday, December 3, 1968, and that the necessary forms will be available on or after that date in the Highways Building, Edmonton, in the offices of the District Engineers at Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Red Deer, Edson, Vermilion, Athabasca, St. Paul, Peace River, Grand Prairie. Truckers interested in participating in this program must register early and all registration will cease as of January 15, 1969.

The program this winter is expected to be of limited volume and will be primarily in the more remote areas of the province. The nature of the work places much of the hauling in isolated areas requiring the trucker to have portable living accommodation. A number of the haul routes will be across muskeg terrain and out of some of the major river valleys. The operators must, therefore, be competent and have the trucks in good operating condition.

The registration forms must be completed in every detail, in duplicate, and must be completed by the trucker before a Commissioner of Oaths. Commissioners of Oaths are available at the points of registration and it is suggested that the most use be made of these people to expedite the registration. Both copies must be turned in at the point of registration or returned to the Department of Highways in Edmonton. After checking and tabulating of the forms in Edmonton, one copy will be returned to the trucker which he must retain for presentation to the Engineer on a project to which he is assigned and answers the call to work.

The truck registration system was originally introduced to distribute work among gravel dump truck operators presently in the business and depending wholly on the work for their living. There is no guaranty for all registering that work will be available. However, the principle is to distribute the work as equitably as possible during the winter months. The success of the operation is entirely dependent on prompt acceptance of a call when given and immediate reporting to the work project. If an individual is not prepared to act in this fashion, then he should not register. Additionally, the trucker receiving a call and who does not advise his intent to proceed to the project within the time specified when registering would obviously be dropped from the listing in favor of other truckers. The success of this system is, therefore, entirely dependent on the full co-operation of all those registering.

Only one truck per owner may be registered. It is not intended that large firms, professional men, and others who have substantial business endeavors other than trucking register under the program.

The gross earning amount will be initially at $1,200.00 per owner called to work. However, this figure will be adjusted if required depending on the volume of work and the success in obtaining trucks promptly when called.

Traffic Statistics Show October Increased By 177

For the third time this year, the Alberta Safety Council traffic accident summary reports more than 4,000 traffic accidents for one month in Alberta. At the same time, the Council notes a higher than usual number of traffic deaths and injuries in urban areas alongside a lower than usual number of deaths and injuries on rural roads.

A total of 4,062 accidents were reported in October, up 177 for the same month of 1967. Total for the year to date is up 13 per cent.

Previously, August and January accident totals were above 4,000. The worst month ever reported was last December when 5,332 accidents were reported to the Safety Council.

The high accident total this past October was not reflected by rising death and injury tolls.

There were 34 people killed in traffic mishaps during the month, compared with 49 last year. There were 915 injuries reported, down from 988 reported in October 1967.

October's drop in fatal and injury numbers means deaths are now running one per cent ahead of last year, compared with seven per cent calculated at the end of September. Injuries are still nine per cent above last year's level (September showed them 11 per cent above).

Although accidents reported from urban areas run at much higher than those from rural areas, by far the greatest number of deaths and injuries result from rural crashes. The determining factor here is the higher average speed at which these rural accidents occur.

Lately, the number of injuries being reported from urban areas has increased in relation to the number reported from rural areas. In fact, urban injuries nearly equal rural injuries for the first 10 months of 1968. In October, urban traffic injuries outnumbered rural injuries.

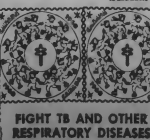

This swing is also noticed to a smaller extent in October's traffic death statistics. A relatively low level of rural area deaths (24 compared with 44 last October) contrasts with a relatively high level of urban traffic fatalities (10 compared with 5 last October). Both Calgary and Edmonton are recording traffic fatalities at record or near record rates.

To the extent that this subtle shift is occurring, it can be attributed to at least two factors. First is the exploding population densities in urban areas with their resultant growth in traffic flow.

Second, and most important from the injury and death standpoint, are the higher and higher speeds (both legal and illegal) being encountered in city traffic. High speed is the very factor which accounts for the greater death-injury per accident ratio of rural traffic statistics.

Wood used for outdoor purposes should have a moisture content between 12 and 18 percent; wood used inside should be dried 5 to 10 per cent moisture content.

Horns And Antlers

(Courtesy: Forest Preserve District of Cook County- Nature Bulletin)

A great many large grazing or browsing animals, the ones which have cloven hoofs and chew their cud, are armed with either horns or antlers. These weapons are used for defense and in duels between males for possession of a female. Although both horns and antlers are borne on the head and have similar uses, they are very different structures.

Horns, in contrast to antlers, are unbranched. They are hollow bony sheaths enclosing pointed bony cores that arise from the front of the skull. These sheaths are made of keratin, the same substance as our fingernails. They continue to grow throughout the life of the animal and are never shed. Horns are commonly found both sexes of a species and are always in pairs.

Amazingly, the solid bony antlers are shed each year. Soon, a new pair begins to form as furry knobs that rapidly expand into the curving and branching shape of the mature structures. During this growth period, the antlers are soft, covered with a velvety skin, have a rich blood supply, and are quite sensitive. By late summer the blood supply stops and the "velvet" begins to dry up and peel off. Then the antlers harden into bone which is polished by rubbing against trees - probably because they itch.

Although the bucks are timid while their antlers are growing, they become ill-tempered with the approach of the mating season in late autumn. There are fierce fights between them for possession of the does. These battles are seldom fatal but sometimes their antlers become tightly locked together and both animals starve to death.

Contrary to common belief, the number of points on a deer's antlers do not tell its age. Beginning with a pair of simple "spikes" in its first year, the number increases until the fifth year with up to 12 points. With advancing age, fewer and fewer points develop until an old buck may have only simple spikes again.

Beginning with prehistoric man, horns and antlers have had many uses. Eskimos shaped spoons and dippers from musk ox horns. Indians made hunting bows from the bighorn, garden tools from elk antlers, and spear points from deer. Powder horns for muzzle-loading guns came from cows and the ancient shofar, or ram's horn, is still blown in Jewish religious rites. In the wild, shed antlers are soon eaten by gnawing mice and other rodents.

Carling Pilsener Comes To Alberta

Carling Breweries (Alberta) Ltd. announced recently the introduction of their well-known Carling Pilsener to Alberta. A long time favorite of beerdrinkers in other Western Provinces, Carling Pilsener is being distributed through Alberta Liquor Control Board Stores throughout the Province. It is available to consumers at all Stores and Licensed Premises, as of November 25th.

Carling Pilsener has been brewed to the Alberta taste, and can be identified by its "light in body and taste qualities," but with a smooth, easy-drinking flavor, true pilsener drinkers appreciate.

On the introduction of Carling Pilsener, R. A. Ronald, Sales Manager for Carling Breweries (Alberta) Ltd. advised the brand is packed in its well-known blue and gold body label and cartons. Similar to other Carling brands, Carling Pilsener is available in 12 oz. returnable bottles in both 6-pack and 12-pack cartons. The 12 bottle end-load used for Carling Pilsener recently won the first prize award at the Packaging Association of Canada competitions in Toronto.

... the man who "passes the ammunition" for the war on grasshoppers?

When the grasshoppers strike, ammunition with which to fight them must be immediately available. As agricultural fieldman in charge of pest control and crop protection in southern Alberta, Jim Archibald stores and supplies insecticides so they will be available without delay to those areas stricken by a 'hopper outbreak. When needed, the insecticides are sold at cost to counties and municipalities for re-distribution to the affected farmers. Throughout the province, representatives of the Pest Control and Crop Protection Branch of the Plant Industry Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, work to win the war against, not only grasshoppers, but all sorts of pests and diseases which threaten crops. Working with municipal authorities, fieldmen experiment constantly with methods of control against harmful insects, birds and animals, and carry out inspections aimed at early discovery of plant diseases.

Anyone who believes he has a grievance against the Government of Alberta, and has exhausted all normal appeal procedures, is entitled to present his complaint to G. B. McClellan, Ombudsman for the province, who was the first Ombudsman appointed in Canada. These grievances, which must be in writing, may be received from individuals or groups, and it is the Ombudsman's responsibility to investigate the authenticity of each complaint. They may relate to decisions, recommendations, acts or omissions made by any department or agency of the provincial government, which the complainant feels to be discriminatory, contrary to law, unjust or wrong. The Ombudsman recommends, at various government levels, remedial action where he feels the complaint is justified. The results of all investigations are reported to the Legislature annually.

... a sower who knows he will never reap?

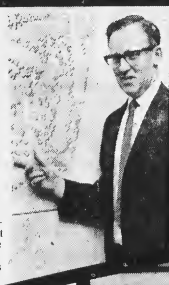

Deep in Alberta's forests, Bob Millar plants trees that will take another three or four generations to mature; trees that may be felled to serve his descendants in the 21st century or that may act as a sanctuary for the preservation of wildlife against an encroaching civilization. John is a part of the reforestation program being conducted throughout the province's wooded areas by the Forestry Service of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. This program is part of the provincial policy of sustained yield, which simply means that, for each tree cut down, there must be at least one new one planted to replace it. In this way, generations yet unborn are assured of adequate supplies of timber and recreational forest areas. Future Albertans will benefit from a continuing forest products industry as well, thanks to the initiative and foresight which prompted the reforestation program.

... a developer with designs on government buildings?

No new provincial building, be it hospital, museum, school or office structure, is considered complete until the last blade of grass on the grounds is up and thriving, along with tastefully placed trees, shrubs and flowers. This finishing touch is the responsibility of Allen Jess, acting Supervisor of the Landscape Development Section of the Alberta Department of Public Works. He and his staff of draftsmen produce landscape designs that will enhance the architectural structure and provide the beautiful surroundings which are a distinctive feature of Alberta Government buildings. The Landscape Development Section is just one of the many specialized facilities utilized in the construction and maintenance of the hundreds of public buildings serviced by the Alberta Department of Public Works.

Many rural families in southern Alberta are learning how to make their incomes stretch a little further, thanks to the money management teaching of Mrs. Edna Clarke, Regional Home Management Specialist of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Extension Division. Mrs. Clarke is one of the many specialists of the Extension Division who are available to advise homemakers on such a variety of subjects as consumer education, food and nutrition, clothing, family life education, and home design. District Home Economists in various regions throughout the province call on the services of these specialists to present discussions, demonstrations and short courses in their areas. Alberta's rural families are kept up to date on homemaking development through the efforts of these members of the Home Economics Branch, Agricultural Extension Division.

Should an Alberta hospital suffer an outbreak of infection from an unknown cause, Miss Shirley Thorsteinson is called upon to identify the bacteria responsible and to trace their source. One such process is called "pyocine typing of pseudomonas organisms" but, basically, it's the same as fingerprinting. At the Alberta Provincial Laboratory, where Miss Thorsteinson is a technician, the germ that causes the outbreak is typed and a search is made for a germ of the same type in the hospital environment. As in fingerprinting, when two cultures match, the identity of the culprit is revealed. This is one of the many free services performed by the Alberta Provincial Laboratories in Calgary and Edmonton for hospitals, local boards of health, health units and physicians. Administered by the University of Alberta for the Alberta Department of Health, the Laboratories also conduct bacteriological, pathological and serological examinations, including cervical cancer smear tests.

Sometimes weekend drivers get a bonus.

You know what it's like when you take your wife for a drive in the country. She has a nose for auctions like you wouldn't believe. Stop! she'll cry. I believe that brass bed would be perfect for Jimmy's room!

So you stop.

And one brass bed, two dining room chairs, a drop-leaf table and a lampshade later, she thinks she's ready to go.

Yule Logs

It is hard to believe that Christmas is less than a month away. For a lot of you I imagine Christmas is the farthest thing from your mind. However, if you want to make yule logs this year to add color and elegance as you sit around your fireplace - now is the time to make them.

The most important thing you will need in making Yule Logs for your fireplace is a wooden pail or a large crock. Metal pans will not do because the salts used will corrode metal utensils. He is the recipe:

2 lbs. coarse salt
2 gallons boiling water.

1oz. of any of the following salts: (depending on which colors you wish to burn in your logs.)

Red - Sodium Nitrate, Blue - Antimony Chloride, Crimson - Bismuth nitrate, Green - Borax or barium nitrates, Purple - potassium chloride or cobalt.

Method: Mix the salts and add boiling water. Roll up magazine tightly (large old catalogues are excellent) and place them in a solution to soak for two weeks. Let them dry on a rack for one or two months.

Or - if you are rushed for time try:

Jiffy Yule Logs

2 lbs. coarse salt.
2 lbs. bluestone.
2 oz. salts for coloring.

Method - Mix all in a cardboard box. Place in Dixie or other paper cups and cover well with melted paraffin. These can just be thrown into the flame and will give their fire bright colors.

NOTE: Be sure to keep them out of reach of children.

In my travels around the district over the last few weeks I've heard many complaints from individuals about the time that Farm Fare is now seen which is Sunday mornings.

We in the Department of Agriculture were not in favor of this time because of the fact that most of the audience would be attending church services.

However, our hands are tied. But yours aren't.

The only way we can have the time changed is if the complaints come from you, the people, directly to the TV station or Doug Card. If you are in disagreement with the present time of presentation and would like to see it back on a weekday evening, don't leave it up to your neighbors, but take the initiative and write that letter.

Then maybe we'll get results.

PLANTE - In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Joseph Eli Plante, who passed away Dec. 12th, 1941.

It is sad to walk the road alone instead of side by side. But to all there comes a moment when the ways of life divide. You gave me years of happiness. Then came sorrow and tears. But you left me beautiful memories I will treasure through the years.
